

AccountMate's latest SQL Release Tightens Integration with Microsoft Functionality Including Teams

(October 20, 2021) (Petaluma, CA) AccountMate Software's Chief Operating Officer, Tommy Tan, announced that an updated AccountMate 12.2 for SQL has launched. He said along with the many enhancements including in this build release, he felt it important point out that providing the Microsoft Teams integration was yet another demonstration of the tight interactivity with Microsoft. "Microsoft Teams has become increasingly important as more clients work remotely and do a lot of communicating using this Teams option. We wanted to accommodate this need and added it to AccountMate 12.2 for SQL." This adds to the long-term integration of Microsoft Excel, Microsoft Word and Microsoft SQL.

There are many other high-visibility enhancements in this AccountMate 12 product release. Some of these include the ability to change the warehouse assigned to all line items in an open purchase, to search for customer address during purchase order shipping address setup, remove "price > cost" validation for line items set not for use in invoices/sales orders, and group accounts receivable aging data by parent customer number to enable generation of a consolidated report for a single parent account or for multiple parent accounts at one time.

Per AccountMate's protocol, the majority of these impressive number of feature enhancements introduced in AccountMate 12.2 for SQL were a direct result of suggestions and prioritization from our Solution Providers and their clients.

The AccountMate ERP software system includes over twenty modules that can be purchased separately. With the option for clients to add solutions from highly-recognized vertical partners, this makes the AccountMate system expandable to handle many industry-specific requirements. This opportunity offers clients the capacity to scale their AccountMate software to adhere to their own management demands and meet escalating company growth challenges.

The consistent release of builds and versions, including AccountMate 12.2 for SQL, demonstrates the ongoing effort on the part of AccountMate to include features that provide clients additional efficiencies and functionality. It also it a way for AccountMate to assure the effort that will maintain the loyalty of its customers.
